Northwest Sector

What happened in 2002

- 55th/56th Traffic Calming - Work continued on the installation of a variety of traffic calming measures and the community planted street trees along this corridor.
- Linden Orchard - The Friends of Linden Orchard worked with Seattle Parks and Recreation and the P-Patch Program to design and develop this 14,360 square-foot undeveloped property at the northwest corner of Linden Avenue N and N 67th Street as a park and community garden with $60,000 in Pro Parks Funding. A Neighborhood Matching Fund Grant was used to develop a site plan based on input from three community meetings.
- Lower Woodland Field #1 Lighting and Mariner's All-Star Legacy Grant - The City received a $1 million grant from the Mariners and Major League Baseball to renovate and upgrade several baseball fields at the Lower Woodland Park Complex and augment a separate lighting system project. Construction for this much-anticipated project began in spring of 2002. The lighting system installation was completed in the summer.
- NW 65th & Latona Intersection Improvements - The Seattle Department of Transportation installed pedestrian safety improvements at this intersection, including curb bulbs, wheelchair ramps, and new crosswalk markings.
- Roundabout Study: Using Neighborhood Plan Implementation Opportunity Funds, an internationally recognized consultant was hired and is reviewing the feasibility of changing the intersection at Greenlake Way N. and West Greenlake Way N. near the Pitch and Putt to improve safety, traffic flow, and pedestrian and bicycle mobility.

What's Underway In 2003

- Lower Woodland Park - The baseball field improvements include covered dugouts, synthetic turf and reconfiguration of the field's drainage and irrigation system, 300-seat bleachers, a digital scoreboard, batting cages and bullpens. Also included is a flag plaza with ornamental brick paving. The 90-foot baseball field will be named "Mariners All-Star Field at Woodland Park." Work will be completed in summer, 2003. - Linden Orchard - Construction of the improvements will take place over the summer and be completed in early fall.
- Private Development - The mixed use development at 70th and Woodlawn NE, which included a public plaza with benches, planters, and street trees, will be completed this year. Gregg's Green Lake Cycle is beginning discussions with the community regarding its plans to redevelop its site.
